

Superior Weather Intelligence

| Integrated into your Esri products

The ability to analyze and interpret weather data is essential to protecting your organization from weather hazards. That's why Baron delivers customizable, reliable, and precise weather data in the maps you're already using, empowering you to make fast, informed, and effective decisions.

Determine the Impact of Weather

Seamlessly add weather information as a layer into your maps with the integration of Baron's weather data in your ArcGIS platform without the need for a developer. Graphics and data are published as a Map or Feature Service, allowing our ArcGIS Server to easily integrate with other native Esri tools for use in web, desktop and field apps, and other Esri applications. Baron provides a complete catalog of global meteorological data, including many exclusive products that provide increased weather knowledge for any industry or organization, including:

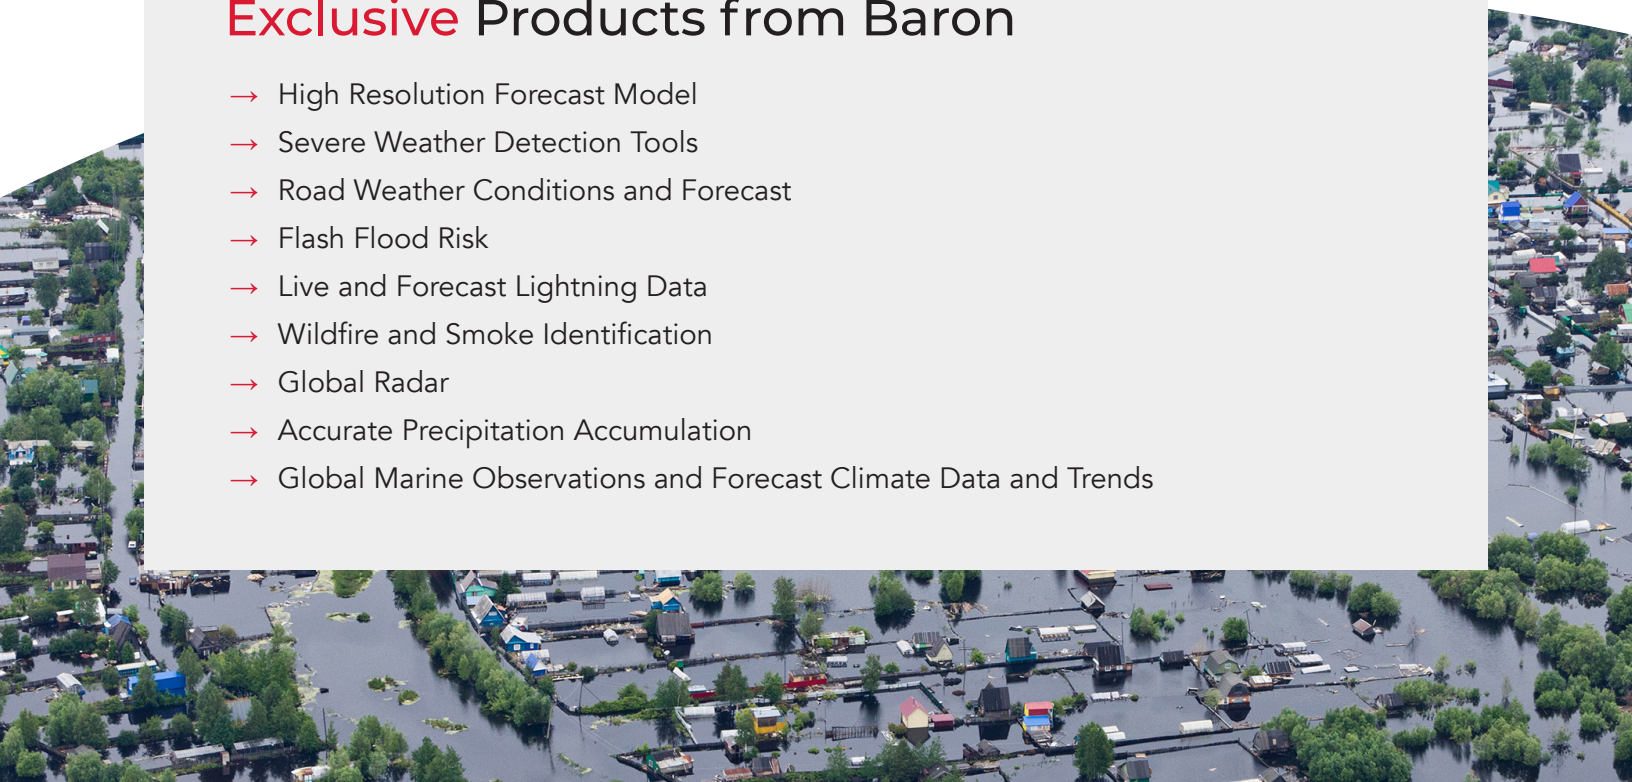

- Government
- Public Safety
- Insurance
- Business Continuity
- Retail Analytics
- Big Data
- Facilities and Asset Management
- Transportation

Baron's specialized catalog of current and forecast data delivers accurate information about the location, time, and severity of a weather event, giving you an in-depth analysis of the impact to your operations and assets. Our high-resolution weather data is viewable down to the street level so you can focus on individual places of interest.

Anyone in your organization can access the weather data using your GIS platform for easy collaboration. Set up alerts and automated workflows using Baron data for when dangerous weather threatens specific locations within your organization.
